Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission for Chemical Weapons Demilitarization

A Forum For Community Involvement

The U.S. Army's top priorities for the Chemical Materials Agency are safely storing and disposing of the U.S. chemical weapons stockpiles and providing meaningful opportunities for public involvement. The Army recognizes that public participation in the program is critical to its success. Even though the stockpile disposal at Deseret Chemical Depot (DCD) has been ongoing since 1996, decisions still need to be made, which present opportunities for public involvement.

The Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission (CAC) for Chemical Weapons Demilitarization provides a vital link between the community and the Army by providing a forum for exchanging information about chemical weapons disposal operations at the DCD. CAC members represent the community's interests and come from diverse backgrounds such as health care, construction, hazardous waste management and engineering. The Utah CAC regularly meets with representatives of the U.S. Army, the facility contractor, the state of Utah and its citizens publicly to discuss the program at the DCD, its impact on Utah and its communities, and the interests of the public.

The governor of Utah appoints each CAC member to serve an unlimited term at the governor's discretion. Although the Utah CAC receives limited federal funding from the Department of Defense, it operates independently of Army influence.

The Army invites you to contact the Utah CAC to discuss the program and ways to become involved in the decision-making process. The commission welcomes your input and participation.
